JUSTICE OLIVER OUSTED. Decision of the District Supreme Court. THE PRESIDENT HAS THE POWER TO REMOVE JUS-

TICES OF THE PEACE.

In the Court in General Term to-day the case of Chief Justice Bingham delivering the opinion o the court sustaining the demurrer of the Govern ment and awarding a judgment of ouster. This was an information filed by the district attorney against the defendant, who, having been removed from his office as justice of the peace by the President, refused to surrender to John Evans, appointed in his place, claiming that under the law he could only be removed by the Court in General Term, after due notice, &c. The chief justice, after quoting the legislation on the subject of justices of the peace from February 27, 1801, states that the power to remove such officers was in the down to the organic act of the court March, 1863), and this latter act does not give the court the exclusive power, but gives it concurrent power with the President. The power of the President was not abridged, but it is enacted that the court may remove, &c. The demurrer was sustained, and judgment of ouster awarded with costs. Davis says that on going to his house in Montgomery one night he observed crouching near the garden wall a man who ran away and mysteriously disappeared. He sent the anonymous letter letter to Wm. B. He discusses war questions, and with regard to the seven days' battles around Richmond says Gen. Lee conceived and executed the desperate plan to turn the fiank and rear of McClellan's army, and that the failure to annihilate the Federal army was due chiefly to the fact that Gen. Lee had no maps of the country below Richmond, and that his army moved in ignorance of the country and with guides who, for the most part, proved themselves utterly inefficient.

California Mob Avenges a Murder-An Exciting Time in Colusa. CHICAGO, July 11 .- A special dispatch from Coheeded, it became our sad duty to notify him that o'clock yesterday morning Hong Di, the Chinese domestic who murdered Mrs. Billiou at St. John seven persons aboard, chiefly women and children. some time ago, was taken from jail and hanged by a mob. The murderer had been on trial for several days, and a verdict of guilty was returned Saturday, the jury fixing the punishment at imprisonment for life. Mrs. Billiou, her two daughters, and Wm. Weaver, head servant man, were sitting at support when the door of the district recommends. at supper when the door of the dining-room was thrown open by Hong Di, the cook, who levelled a Winchester refle at Weaver and shot him through the shoulder. He fell on the floor, and a second shot went through Mrs. Billiou's head, killing her instantly. Both daughters fied to an adjoining room and escaped uninjured. The Chinaman fied and Weaver managed to get on his feet and locked the door. No trace of the murderer could be seen for nearly a week, when he was found on the bank of the Sacramento river, nearly starved to death. The circumstances of the assassination were still fresh in the mind of every one, and on hearing the verdict the crowd became exasperated.

The judge refused to accept the decision of the jury and a wild scene at once began. Almost every man present was armed, and in an instant a hundred pistols were drawn, amid cries of "lynch him." The sheriff jumped to his feet and quieted the crowd long enough to say that while he disapproved of the verdict he hoped no blood would be shed in court. The crowd left the court-room and the present was removed to left. plause. In the course of his speech he said, after referring to conscience as a guide: "If you want to see true devotion to the Catholic Church, go where it is in the minority and with little power, as in Ireland and Germany. Citizens were posted at all avenues of escape, and about 12:30 o'clock a break was made for the jail. Guards had been posted by the sheriff, but as they were in sympathy with those on the outside little resistance was made. In a few moments the assassin was in the avengers hands. Weaver, the man whom he had shot first, was present, rope in hand. The prisoner was at once dragged out and conveyed to the bridge, shricking and screaming in terror. His cries were addressed to deaf ears, however. The rope was put around his ears, however. The rope was put around his neck despite his desperate struggle half a dozen raising him in their arms, and he was tossed over the parapet. The wretched being was probably half dead when thrown over. He struggled feebly a few minutes and then swung quietly. Shortly afterward the body was cut down by order of the sheriff and carried to the jail.

THE MYSTERY DISASTER.

The Fate of the Brooklyn Chowder Party-the Latest Particulars. New York, July 11 .- The disaster to the yacht Mystery, upset off Barren Island last evening. proves to be as serious as at first reported. The number of lives lost will not be less than 25, and is likely to reach 27. The party was mainly from the eastern district of Brooklyn and was known as the Crescent Yacht Club. It was a nominal organization, simply for the purpose of a chowder party or picnic and in the depth of grief and hor-ror that the accident has plunged its members, they are scarcely able to tell the particulars of the make-up of their own party. The number of in-vited guests, known only to the persons who ex-tended the invitations and not to the others, makes t impossible even yet to give a list of the passengers of the ill-fated yacht.

THE NAMES OF THE LOST. The best advices estimate the whole load at thirty-seven and the number of those saved is only ten. The following is a list of the lost up to the latest reports: Lost—Michael Schwind, the blind accordeon player, residence unknown; Mrs. Brandell, Mrs. Louise Obernoir, of 148 Varet street, Brooklyn, E.D. STILL CLINGING TO HOPE. The account of the historian, J. Thos. Scharf's recent interviews with Jeff. Davis at Beauvoir has been published. Davis makes a charge that the United States Government endeavored to have him assassinated during the war. He says:

"While the Confederate Government was at Montgomery, in 1861, I received an anonymous letter from Philadelphia, the substance of which was that the governor of Pennsylvania had released a noted desperado from the penitentiary on condition that he would go to Montgomery and assassinate me, with the promise of a reward of $100,000 if he succeeded. After release the man stated that he could not probably succeed alone, and gave the name of another convict of character like his own, with whose assistance he felt sure of success and that the second convict was released The survivors and the others of the club who

A Frightful Disaster to a Pleasure Party in Jamaica Bay.

A frightful disaster occurred yesterday to a pleasure party off Barren Island, in Jamaica Bay, L. I., last evening. The sloop Mystery was capsized and twenty-seven persons are reported as the men of the party having gone in other boats, race, and a land breeze that was almost a gale gave a white curl to the waves. The sloop had started to come about, but the bigness of her load caused delay. Then a squall struck her. Over she went, and men, women and children we're thrown into the water. The tugboat C. E. Dean was not far from the Mystery when she capsized, and Capt. Rohde directed her head toward the unfortunate excursionists.

The Mystery was in the channel when the squal struck her, and the tug had to round Barren Is land to reach her. A yacht that started out with land to reach her. A yacht that started out with the Mystery from the excursion grounds at Ruffle Bar, and was near her when she upset, made no effort to go to her rescue. Her crew, seemingly paralyzed with terror, had let down ber sail and thrown out an anchor. When the Dean arrived a little boat, manned by Andrew Robinson, a negro, who had rowed out from Barren Island, and picked up five women and two men, was struggling against the strong tide. The Dean took his load on board, and then drew near the Mystery, which was nearly submerged. Two little girls, unconscious or dead, were picked up on the way, and then the body of a woman was taken from the water. A young man in a white fiannel shirt jumped overboard from the Dean and dived several times under the sloop in an effort to secure "For God's sake stop the music," he cried.

"There are dead aboard."

The music ceased and the crowd grew still. The music ceased and the crowd grew still Five women, crying and wring their hands, were helped from the tug. On the forward deck could be seen the bodies of the dead woman, the two little girls stretched side by side, their white dresses clinging to them like shrouds. The women and children on the whart cried in sympathy, and where music and laughter had been a moment before were tears and wailing. Then the train thundered in and most of the crowd scrambled on Capt. David Hendrickson and his son were charge of the Mystery, and both are believed to be lost. The wife of John O'Brien, the boat-owner, who owns a number of boats and keeps a saloon at Canarsie, was on board with her three children and all were drowned. The remainder of the party were mainly Germans. The excitement and confusion was so great that even the identifications of the recovered bodies were contradictor; The conflicting stories of the survivors, and the chance that there may be some rescued people at Barren Island, make it impossible to give exactly the number lost. The boat load is generally believed to have numbered thirty-seven, and the most hopeful account of the rescues fixes their number at ten. This would make twenty-seven drowned.

Among the party on the Mystery was a blind ac-cordeon player. Last night, while the grapplers and others were at work to recover the bodies, his accordeon was found floating in the water. Did His Wife Poison Him? ALLEGED REVENGE OF A WOMAN FOR THE WHIPPING

OF HER CHILD.

A Chrisfield, Md., special to the Philadelphia

Press, July 10, says: Jonathan Farlow died yesterday under circumstances that gave strong suspicion of poisoning at the hands of his wife. Farwhen he married Emily Pope about six weeks ago. She is about eighteen and is the mother of a child of fifteen months. Friday evening Farlow severely whipped the child. She begged him to desist, but he said he would whip it as long as they lived together and if she did not like it she might take the child and go. He afterward threatened to kick her out of the house. Yesterday morning she called on Dr. F. I. Benney and day morning she called on Dr. F. I. Benney and asked him how much strychnine it would take to kill a man and if 5 cents' worth would do. Shortly atterward she was in a drug store and asked for strychnine. The druggist, not knowing the gave her borax, which was labeled "Poison." In another store she insisted on strychnine and obtained it. She says she mixed up the strychnine and some quinine in separate glassses at the same time and poured the strychnine, as she thought, into a rat hole in the stable, and that her husband took the contents of the other glass. Shortly after Farlow took it he was thrown into convulsions. The first thing he said was "Go away, you have poisoned me." He was dead in less than an hour and a half. Justice Horsey had a talk with Mrs. Farlow, in which he told her that she had been suspected. She started to run through the adjacent woods toward the river. A number of boys and men started in pursuit, but she could not be overtaken until after she had run through the town. When caught she had nearly reached the water, in which it is believed she intended to commit suicide. She was committed to jail to await a hearing. At the funeral of Farlow this afternoon his wife was present in charge of an officer at the grave, She was completely broken down. obtained it. She says she mixed up the strych-

Blind Patterson's Pension. THE ALLEGED PENSION SWINDLERS ALL RETURNED TO ERIE COUNTY. A telegram to the New York Herald from Elmira, N. Y., July 10, says: "Dr. R. N. Mills, of this city, the ringleader in obtaining the big pension for blind Francis Patterson, was taken from the Broome County jail to Erie County this morning, being unable to find bondsmen in $7,000.

Captain John Laidlaw Mills, his partner in the scheme, and blind Patterson himself, were taken several days ago to the Erie County jail. Of the $13,320 fraudulently obtained the Government has recovered $11,775, the remainder having been spent by Mills in riotous living during his trip to Stanardsville, Va. Blind Patterson obtained a very few dollars and Laidlaw none. The evidence against the men is very strong, Edward Porter, of Olean, and Wilkes J. Miller, who made the false affidavits by which Parterson's pension was obtained, turning State's evidence. A United States detective is now in this city endeavoring to get a clew to the whereabouts of A.T. Bissell, of Washington, who is also implicated in this fraud on the Government." sion for blind Francis Patterson, was taken from
